Maskarada is a Russian event which took place before the Easter. During this event people say goodbye to winter and wait to the spring. In Russia is happy to winter spring!

In this event Russian people always eat pancakes because it symbolise the sun which is also red and hot. Also in Russian people burn the strawman and jump under the fire.

This event is going from Monday to Sunday. In these days authors go to each other houses or bars and share with them some romantic with them. I think it's the most friendly and exciting event in Russia. Every year I'm so excited. Every year I give my attention to this holiday event and don't want to miss it!
